“ From childhood until just days before Barbara was called home we were like brother and sister. As she often referred to our relationship I was the brother she never had and she the sister I didn't have. Every time we were together we relived our childhood and appreciate our friendship. I will always remember her with a special place in my heart.

Tammy my heart is broken today also but just the memories that we have are a treasure.

We can see her with her Mom and Dad making sure everything is prepared just as Mom preferred, doing her yard work and making sure those pansies are spaced perfectly with those corn stakes at the front door.

No more discomfort, head bandage or worldly problems to confront. She is home now in the Loving Arms of her Savior.

We will desperately miss her but we are better because of her.

Love you,

Perry
