“ Our mother, we owe her, and our father much, but to their sacrifice much in the world that their legacy left behind reflects ourselves in the pursuit enriched our lives but most importantly their sacrifice is not in vain. The last moments was spending time with her, not by her side, but looking back thankful God gave me great peace in my heart knowing she will be at rest, in our heavenly father's kingdom and my father won't have any rest even in heaven for they are eternally united together in the afterlife finally together, a great reunion of our family that pre-deceased her is commencing. Death is not an end, but because Christ died for our sins at Calvary we can begin anew without worry know there's a heaven, and prepared place for all of us upon our appointed hour with God.
