“ *These are probably my two most favorite pictures that I remember taking with my grandma and I'm so glad I did! I love and miss you so so much already grandma and it makes my heart sink not seeing you anywhere in the house though you have showed all of us signs you are with us in spirit and resting in peace comfortably. I will miss your laugh, you tickling my feet at random points, your sense of humor, and your caring heart. Love you very much.

“ I remember how cool my classmates thought you were when they found out you rollerbladed with me. "Your grandma?!!!" "Don't you mean your mom?!" Or how you could ALWAYS find a ticklish spot in me. But my favorite memory was a ruined Christmas dinner...and how we went house to house to gather snacks and various food since the grocery stores were closed. Your laugh was infectious and innocent like the child at heart you were. I love you and miss you so much grandma. You will be the first person I hug in heaven.

My sister had one item on her "bucket list" and that was to go on a sailboat ride. When she was visiting our family this August, I took her on a sunset cruise on the WindDancer sailboat docked in Grand Haven, Mi. While cruising, I looked over at her and as anyone looking at this picture can see, she looks so peaceful and relaxed and breathing easy. I know that this is the way I will always remember her now and know too, that she is even more at peace in Heaven.

“ I remember my visits with Carol whenever she visited Wisconsin with Ernie. I remember how proud she was of her children and grandchildren. And most of all...I remember how sincere and genuine she was. She will be missed...but forever loved and remembered.

Her wonderful smile could light up the room. Her generous and loving heart made it a privilege to call her friend. Earth's loss is most assuredly heaven's gain.

Mom was the most important woman in my life. She helped me get through Laura's death and was always there to help me when I needed someone to care for my kids when I had to travel for work, I remember she hopped in her car as soon as I called to come help us when Joe was in the hospital for pneumonia, or when we just needed her to be there. I will miss our secret talks where we would laugh and talk about everything under the sun. My Mom accepted everything about me with no restrictions. She loved everyone in her family, unconditionally. My life will not be the same without being able to pick up the phone and call her when I just needed her advice. I will miss you Mom. You will always be in my heart and on my mind. I love you. Rob
