David Johnson I can't believe this is real. I met you over 30 years ago at the famous Lions Beach. We rode them jet skis until the sun went down. You are a great friend to have in this lifetime. I do think God that I met you. You were always a jack of trades and master of some. Always had a head on your shoulders always thinking business. I hate this for your family and friends. Rest easy brothern well there's no more pain or suffering.

“When I first met David twenty four years ago, it was a construction job he had bid on for our home, adding a new car port and deck addition to the house. We liked David very energetic so we choose and went with him. I received a call from David two days before he was to start, it went like this. Hey Wade, David here, im supposed to start work on your home Monday, I'm like here we go, another no show contractor. But David said look I'm gonna be there, but I broke my leg snow boarding, but I will be there. I got home that day from work, and there's David sitting on the ground digging footer holes with a shovel with a cut off handle. He improvised and made it work, from there we found our friendship, he performed many other construction jobs for us over the many years. We fished offshore many of times, and we did some events together that we put on in the Lowcountry, good times. The very house we live in today, that we had built thirteen years ago, David framed and consulted when needed. Always stood behind his word, with a gentleman's handshake and good laugh. You will be missed, by all. Rest Easy..
