“ Jeff, for the short period of time that I knew him, was so kind-hearted and became such an amazing friend to have. I am so happy that Chris and I were able to meet him, Genene, Marty, Paula, and the others when we took the trip to Charleston in June 2021. Because of Jeff, Chris and I have a family that we can depend on who is hundreds of miles away. Because of that trip last year, we now have a blessing baby boy coming and that baby boy already has a guardian angel watching over him.

Genene, we love you so much and will be here for you through anything you need. Please do not hesitate to call us. We can't wait for you to meet Baby Gabe. We pray Gabe is as kind-hearted of a man as Jeff was.

*Love you guys.

I met Jeff when he was a big kid at 16 years old. He wanted a job and to conquer the world. It feels like I helped to raise him. Not that the way we were living was to good of a raising.

But time passed and Jeff got married, had a family and changed his life. He never stopped being a kid at heart though. He still loved to tease and cut up. But I'll see him again in glory. I know this, Jeff believed. Yes I will miss him but I have hope and one day friends together again. One thing I know, if he could tell you something right now, he would say, you need to try to come where I'm at, I want to see you one day. We'll Jeff I miss you now and I'll see you and it'll be a good day. He would tell us to think about this. Miss you man, Jessie your friend.

“ Growing up together and working and drinking under the bridge. Almost losing my truck in the ocean and two of searching for things to borrow out of garages to get my truck out off a water logged beach. Working together at Burger king, Our memories I will never forget. There are many memories I will never forget, but we both know these few memories to well. It's so hard to think you have gone to god. It was to early for you and you know it. May your family live to be the way you would want them and anything I can ever do for them I hope they will let me know. Please take my tears with you in heaven, one day I will be there to live out our days. God Bless you, you deserve it!

Uncle Jeff,

One of my fondest memory was when I was around 1 year old, he would toss me up above the bed, almost touching the ceiling, then catching me with a soft landing right before hitting the bed! He would do this over and over scaring the fear of heights right out of me! Now I'm an lineman apprentice! I now have a family with two kids and I do the same to them seeing the excitement on both sides. Can't wait to see him "Flex" one more time. He was one of the strongest men I ever knew. Tough as nails and never backed down from no one. Another hero of mine, has embraced the Lord Jesus, as he walks through the tunnel of Glory, to reunite with other loved ones with celebration! Uncle Jeff, I'll see you soon, on the winning side. Love you.
