“ When I was a rookie at Charleston City P.D. back in the '70s, I heard stories about the "old cops", the "real cops" in the Charleston area. David Zorn C.P.D., Eugene Frasier, CCPD, and Jerry Ginn, NCPD, just picking out one from each department (there were others). Over the years, I came to know them all and worked with most of them. Jerry and I became very good friends. Especially after his retirement, we hunted and fished together in both the Carolinas. One day on a quail hunt, he remarked to me, "you know, L.G., there are not many of us old cops left". It was the best compliment I ever had.

“ What can I say about Jerry Lee. He had a intimidating personality but with those of us that knew him he was also a big teddy bear to. He reminded me of the Grumpy old men movie. It was so easy to love him and we all did and still do. He never missed any family get together and loved to talk about hunting and fishing. You wanted to see that man light up you talk about going to a gun show or hunting quail he would talk your ear off for the next 8 hrs lol. You are at rest now Grandpa thank you for the lessons you taught me and the fun trips to the store. Tell Nana I said Hi.

“ It was my privilege to work with Jerry Ginn during the mid-1980s at the North Charleston Police Department. I was a patrol officer and Jerry was a detective. Jerry was a really good guy, and always willing to share his (very considerable) knowledge of policing and investigative techniques. There were several very good detectives at North Charleston at that time; Jerry was, in my estimation, one of the top two.

Jerry's passing is a real loss. My condolences to his family.

“ Enjoyed many years of working with Jerry in law enforcement. Jerry and Marsha were very personal friends of my husband, David Zorn and I. Truly enjoyed our lives as we interacted for many, many years. Jerry is now with Marsha and David, with no more sorrows of this life. It will be good to some day join them. Love to all our memories.
