“ I worked with John at Target Rock for many years. Always a pro. loved to see his latest models. I did get to travel with him some and that leads to my John Behm story. We were in England for a week to provide customer training. All week long he made me drive on the wrong side of the road. By the end of the week he finally worked up the courage to give it a try. Did pretty well for a while until we went into a rotary the wrong way, and that was it for him. God Bless you John.

“ Working next to John for several years was more than just a co-worker...He was more like family. We had ups and downs, but like all families we held together with love. We laughed, we argued, we shared, and we supported. His success in life was his ability to connect with everyone in a positive way. Everyone here only remembers him as a nice guy and held with high respect. A man who loved his career until his retirement, I am happy he had time to spend more moments with his family. Perhaps he is now with his dogs that he loved so much. I will miss John and am grateful to know him.
