“ Larry will be greatly missed because he was greatly loved. He was our good to man. Thankfully Peggy would share her Larry with us to figure how to so many things in our house way before you tube. He would come over anything we called and said help? I have rewired a new fan but I can't get the light to come on from a 3 way switch. He would always sit and think and analyze the problem first. Sometimes I think he was playing me by calming sitting while all along knew what I had done wrong. Sometimes he would leave and return with tools and a hand drawn diagram and Peggy. I At this point I was a little frazzled because this 30 minute project was now going into day 2 before calling Larry. Larry was always so calm and have that famous grin and twinkle in his eye when he would return and explain to me I had wired the fan to the wrong connections or to itself. He spent a lot of time helping me on LOTS of projects, but I think his favorite ones when he would find and expose my error. He had a big heart and was a trickster and if I made a mess he would fix it and laughing and lovely tell what I did wrong! Like, Vicki water does not normally run up when working on the kitchen sink pipes!
