“ Larry did not come into my life until he was already wed and had a newborn son. From day one Larry treated me like I was his own flesh and blood brother. I have many memories of Me, him, and daddy together throughout my younger years including the day he first met his granddad Champ and all of us spent the afternoon and long into the evening together. Over the years I would see him time to time and especially after I was released from the Marine Corps. Each time I saw Larry it was always as if we just saw each other, like no time had passed and I can't begin to recount the memories. I will ever miss his sense of humor, and honesty and always admired his strength of will and his courage. He never once treated me as just a step/adopted brother, but always as a genuine brother, it always meant so much to me. We spent many times with each other back in my drinking and wild days. The times we had together he trusted me as a confidant and I saw him change over the years, I remember how happy I was for him when he began speaking to me about the Bible and Church. We had so many talks about those things. I recall all the talks from when he quit the drinking and up to the smoking. I recall our chats about Churchianity vs Christianity and discussions about different teachings. He had a genuine desire to learn and know the truth. While I will ever miss him, my only brother, I know that his soul rests in the hands of God and we shall see each other again, and in that day the Lord will wipe away all the tears.

“ My husband, my best friend I love you so much. Words can not express how much I am hurting for you. I know you are at peace now but I still want you with me. We had a wonder last 2 days together before you were taken from me/us. Our 30 year marriage I we not trade for a second. I will love you and love only you forever my sweet babe. You are in the glory of god and our family that has already passed, enjoy seeing your mom, Ray, grandpa, my dad and mom, friends and especially our lost child. I know you will watch over us. I love you with all my heart and soul!
