“ Well dad, it's been a year. Not one day goes by that mother or I think of you. It could be something small in the kitchen, the way you wanted it set up or in the bathroom or in the living room with your tree not perfectly straight. Those things do not matter. As you requested,,I live here now and I am taking care of mom. Secondly, You were right she does have cancer but it has been in remission since March and she looks great. Third, Ross seems lost without you and Fred.I am assuming that you've seen Fred up there and you gave him a tongue lashing And now y'all are getting along famously. talking about Bible quotes and introducing each other to family we've never met. Fred has always been extremely polite and interested and other family groups stopping. Guess what??!!??!!!! I got dad??!!!! you would have never thought about it, and you would've said absolutely no. Well we have a 2 for 1. She is a Shih Tzu and a bichon frise mix. She does not shed, you would love her for that. She is a therapy dog for mom and a service dog for me she alerts on my super low and my super high blood sugars and she's alerted twice the past few days for super low diabetes. well dad I know it just sounds like him chitchatting, that is because I am, Ross really really misses you, mom of course feels lost without you and even through our spats I loved you so very much and respected you I know it was your time and you lived so well and so long only a brown boy could live that long. See you again one day, love LeeAnne say hi to Erk for me!!!!

“ So sorry Denise & LeeAnne,
I lost track during my 18 yrs. in Costa Rica, but have many fond memories of our times together in Savh. My daughters finally repatriated me to ATL in 2015, where only Chrisy remains. Sallie's in Huntsville w/ Ginger, Ginny's in Colorado Springs, & Emily's in Savh. At 77 YO, I'll remain in Midtown ATL.
I wish y'all the best, & miss ole Holt.
Sincerely, Ronnie Erickson
